

Restoring the Commitment to Public Education

1
2
3 WHEREAS Washington's Public schools are under funded, yet our academic standards
4 are among the highest in the nation. Article IX of the Washington State Constitution
5 makes public education the state's "paramount duty"; It's time to take the lead and 6 ensure that our public schools receive the funding they need to educate all children;

7
8 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools are 46th in class size out of 50 states and 9 Washington D.C.; and

10
11 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools are 42nd in education spending per student,
12 adjusted for regional cost differences; and

13
14 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools have $2 billion less to spend because funding
15 hasn't kept pace. Twenty-five years ago, Washington spent 50.4 percent of the state
16 operating budget on K-12 schools; now we spend just 42.1 percent; and

17
18 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools are spending $548 less per student compared 19 to 1992; and

20
21 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools are dead last in teacher pay among the five 22 West Coast states; and

23
24 WHEREAS, Washington's public schools, regardless of location or population, must 25 have the resources to allow every child the opportunity to succeed;

26
27 THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Washington State Democratic Party require
28 our elected leaders to restore Washington's commitment to quality education by 29 increasing funding for public schools so that all children receive the well-rounded
30 education they need to compete for good jobs in the global high-tech economy.
