

HOW TO RUN FOR DELEGATE TO THE 2020 DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Washington State Delegate Selection Process

For the complete rules of the delegate selection process, please consult the Washington State DSAAP

MARCH 10 VOTE IN THE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY

Vote in Washington State's presidential primary on March 10th! Candidates that get 15% or more of the vote within a Congressional District in the primary will receive proportional delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Everyone is encouraged to vote, however this is not a required step to run for national delegate.

SUBMIT YOUR LETTER OF INTENT

In order to run as a CD, At- Large, PLEO or Alternate delegate to National Convention, you must submit a letter of intent, which can be found on pg. 107 of the Washington State DSAAP (link below), where you must indicate presidential preference or an intent to run as an uncommitted delegate. Additionally, you may pre- register for your LD caucus using the link below.

LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT CAUCUSES

You may run for delegate to state convention at your local LD caucus on April 26th or May 3rd, depending on which district you are registered to vote in. Here you will break out into presidential preference sub-caucuses and each presidential sub-caucus will elect delegates to State Convention for that presidential candidate. This does not yet make you a national delegate, but if you are elected at your LD caucus, you can vote for national delegates at your CD caucus as well as vote on the state democratic platform at the State Convention.

It is not required to attend your LD caucus to run at your CD caucus

It is not required to attend your LD caucus to run for an At-Large, PLEO or alternate spot
